VOL. XX, NO. 163

PADUCAH, KY., FRIDAY EVENING, JANUARY 4, 1907.

10 CENTS PER WEEK

PREST. HARAHAH HONORS PADUCAH

Spends Hour Shaking Hands All Around

This City Is Important Point on System and Interests Officials of Illinois Central.

INSPECTS SOUTHERN LINES

President J. T. Harahan, of the Illinois Central, was in Paducah yesterday and he took occasion to look about and shake hands.

This is the first trip President Harahan has made to Paducah since he assumed the duties of this office. He came from Louisville on a special train arriving at 4:10 o'clock and leaving at 5 o'clock for the south. He was accompanied to Paducah by Supt. A. H. Egan, of the Louisville division. President Harahan is looking after southern lines where business has increased greatly in the past several months. It is an informal inspection and will be completed in three days.

Paducah stands fifth in line from the top in business on the Illinois Central, so a local merchant who keeps up with such matters, declares, and constant attention is directed to Paducah and the Louisville division.

FOR VICE PRESIDENT.

Benjamin F. Shively, of South Bend, Will Soon Announce.

Lafayette, Ind., Jan. 4.—A close friend of Benjamin F. Shively, of South Bend, formerly of South Bend, formerly congressman from the Thirtieth Indiana district, is authority for the statement that when the proper time arrives his candidacy for the Democratic nomination for vice president of the United States. He was his party's nominee for governor in 1896 and was the Democratic caucus nominee for United States senator against Albert J. Beveridge.

GOUGED BY RAILROADS.

Louisiana Lumber Interests Lose $1,000,000.

New Orleans, Jan. 4.—Charges that Louisiana lumber interests lose approximately $1,000,000 per year because of the methods used by railroads in weighing lumber shipments will today be laid before the state railroad commission here. The protests are made by the Yellow Pine Lumbermen's association of Louisiana and the Southern Cypress Dealers' association.

BOYCOTT SPREADING.

American Goods Put on the Black List in Flowery Kingdom.

Shanghai, Jan. 4.—As a result of the revival of the boycott of American goods, due to the failure of the United States authorities to modify the Chinese exclusion act, the boycott which was recently revived at Canton is spreading over China. Efforts are being made here to induce the Chinese newspapers to reject advertisements of American manufacturers.

Famous Organist Dies.

New York, Jan. 4.—Prof. Albert William Berg, for forty years organist at the Protestant Episcopal church of the Transfiguration, commonly known as "The Little Church Around the Corner," died at his home here, aged eighty-one years. Dropsy, from which he had long suffered, and heart disease caused his death. Prof. Berg was a composer and musical critic as well as an organist. His last composition was a gloria for a "Nunc Dimittis," which was the last work of a composer, Henry Wilson, who died about a quarter of a century ago.

Murder Will Out.

Ellsworth, Wis., Jan. 4.—Michael Lio, indicted for the murder of John Isaacs but discharged by the court, has confessed he murdered Marie Lablazi in New York almost five years ago. He cut up her body. Now York police have fully identified Lio as the murderer of the woman.

Gypsies Appeal to President.

Memphis, Tenn., Jan. 4.—Gypsy families have appealed to President Roosevelt for protection from "Red" Hatcher who, claiming to be king of all tribes, is causing them great fright, they declare.

Last Hope for Mrs. Myers.

Kansas City, Jan. 4.—A writ of habeas corpus was denied today in the case of Aggie Myers. Mrs. Myers was convicted of the murder of her husband. The case was carried to the supreme court of the United States. Habeas corpus was applied for as a last resort to save her from the gallows. She is sentenced to be hanged at Liberty, Mo., January 10.

Many Demands for Coal.

Jap Toner, agent of the Charity club, has distributed 21 orders of coal, of ten bushels each, out of the 1,000 bushels sent here as a gift to the poor of the city by Bernheim Bros., of Louisville. Mayor Yeiser will reserve 500 bushels to distribute for the city.

THREATS

MADE AGAINST PREMIER AND GRAND DUKE NICHOLAS.

Search of Lodging Houses Made to Find Accomplices of Prefect's Assassin.

St. Petersburg, Jan. 4.—Grand Duke Nicholas, Premier Stolypin and two conservative cabinet members received Terrorist letters, condemning them to death. A general search of lodgings for persons under police observation was made during the night in the hope of discovering an accomplice of the assassin of General Vondor Launitz. Many were arrested.

Olie James Hopeful.

Washington, Jan. 4.—Representative Olie James said that he had talked with Chairman Burton, of the rivers and harbors committee, and had been practically assured that the appropriations to be made for the improvement of the Ohio and Mississippi would be satisfactory to the advocates of these rivers. "I am also assured that there will be a good proportion for the improvement of the Cumberland from Nashville down," he said.

Nancy Neal Young Better.

Dr. J. T. Reddick who was called to Kuttawa two days ago to attend the bedside of Nancy Neal Young, a granddaughter of former Congressman W. J. Stone, who is ill of diphtheria, received word today that she is much better. Her father is the well known baggage man running through Paducah.

DYNAMITE OUTRAGE

ATTEMPTED ON TOBACCO BARN IN WEST KENTUCKY.

Independent Man Threatened for Not Handling His Tenants Against Trust.

Princeton, Ky., Jan. 4.—An attempt was made last night to blow up the tobacco barn of R. T. Lamb, an independent farmer near Cobb. Lamb had been warned that unless he used his influence with his tenants to array themselves against the trust an example would be made of him. A charge of dynamite was placed in the bulk of tobacco but exploded with only force enough to scatter the tobacco and did not injure the barn.

Typhoid Epidemic in Scranton.

Scranton, Pa., Jan. 4.—With 1,000 cases of typhoid in town and nine deaths reported in the last twenty-four hours, the epidemic is beginning to take a serious aspect.

NEW RELIGIOUS LAW SIGNED.

Promulgated Today by the President of France.

Paris, Jan. 4.—The new law, known as the Briand law, amending the church and state separation law of 1905, was signed by the president and promulgated.

There is only one kind of a newspaper circulation statement that is worth any consideration and that is the daily detailed statement. The Sun is the only Paducah paper printing such a statement.

CELLARS FILLED WITH BACK WATER

Sewers Proved Inadequate To Unusual Demand

Railroads North and South Suffer Washouts Which Temporarily Hamper Trains.

COLD WEATHER STOPS RAIN.

Fortunately for Paducahans the temperature did not drop last night with the suddenness expected, and little suffering is felt. All the cellars were full of water and those who depended on furnace heat went cold to bed. The sewer down town was not able to carry off the rush of water and as fast as cellars were drained the water ran back in, having no other place to go. Plumbers state that the only dry cellar they knew of was owned by a man who possessed a hydraulic pump.

The heavy rain were forgotten in the bright sunshine this morning except in those parts where standing water hampers work.

Today linemen for the telephone companies were out in different parts of the city pumping water from manholes. The heavy rains beat into the caps of the manholes and filled them with water. It interferes with the proper working of telephone lines, and the "trouble crews" are out working hard today.

At the railroad shops the transfer table and the cinder pits are full of water. The drain pipes became clogged and it will take days to drain them at the rate the water is at present leaving.

Debris carried into sewerage manholes has caused little trouble so far to the street department, but it was necessary to clean several out, and even bricks were washed into some. One exhibition of the force the water fell with can be seen in the scattered cross ties on the N. C. & St. L. main line leading to the passenger depot here. Two stacks of ties, 50 in each, were washed down the side of the fill by the rains and scattered through the hollows by the swift current.

St. Louis Train Stopped.

Yesterday the first results of the heavy rain of the past two days were felt by the Illinois Central road when two miles of roadbed was undermined and tracks torn up for this distance between Grantsburg and Simpson, thirty miles north of Brookport on the Carbondale division, and every train on this division was annulled yesterday afternoon.

The train leaving here at 12:45 o'clock for St. Louis via Brookport turned back at Grantsburg and arrived at 6 o'clock. Passengers were transferred to the 6:15 o'clock Cairo train to connect at Cairo with the St. Louis and Chicago flyer, and the train due at 3:10 o'clock from St. Louis via Brookport, was turned back at Simpson and sent to Cairo, where passengers were transferred to Paducah.

The Caldwell street fill settled yesterday about a foot for fifty feet near the center. The street department is at work filling in the sunken part.

Washout at Boaz.

Not only on the southern Illinois line is the Illinois Central road suffering from washouts, but last night trouble from this source developed on the southern lines, a few miles from Paducah. Every passenger and manifest freight was delayed last night between Paducah and Memphis by washouts. One "dame in" near Boaz station between Paducah and Mayfield and the fast train, No. 104, due at 1:30 o'clock arrived at 6:50 o'clock, after detouring via East Cairo. The fast southbound train No. 103, due at 3:45 o'clock, detoured via East Cairo to Fulton.

This morning the washout has been repaired and the accommodation train from Fulton was delayed but 25 minutes. The Cairo accommodation train was also delayed, arriving 40 minutes late. This was due to uncertain roadbed.

Sewer Responsible.

The cause of water backing into the basement of the Jefferson school building, Eighth and Harrison streets, was found to be in the drain pipe from the basement to the sanitary and storm water sewers. The drain pipe is lower at the basement end than the sewers, and whenever an unusually hard rain comes the sanitary sewers fill and back the water into the basement. The drain from the basement is provided with a shut-off valve. This was shut off, the water pumped out and the school opened yesterday afternoon. Hereafter all necessary to do in case of hard rain, is to shut off the valve.

MUST PUSH THE WORK COLLECTING FUNDS.

FOR THE GLASS PLANT.

Members of the committee soliciting funds for the glass plant are urged to complete their work as soon as possible and exert every effort to this end by Saturday night, if possible. Where the committees are hard at work excellent success has rewarded them and the hopes of the Commercial club are high.

SUFFERING EXPECTED.

Minneapolis, Jan. 4.—A blizzard at this time will result in untold loss of life and the greatest suffering in the regions north, still affected by the coal famine. Settlers along the railroad lines report conditions little better than a week ago.

DUSE MAY DIE.

Genoa, Jan. 4.—Madame Eleonor Duse, the famous actress, is critically ill with pneumonia and while hope for her recovery is entertained by physicians, her friends are apprehensive.

MARSHAL TEMPTED BY A BLACKMAILER

Who Suggests Levying Tribute on Two Swindlers

Smooth Scheme of Pair of Feather Bed Crooks to Secure Property From Housewives.

MARSHAL BROWN DECLINES IT.

"I've given up the swindling man in the world," Wade Brown, deputy United States marshal, declared this morning. He was just back from a successful expedition in the "sticks," and having gotten back to civilization was inclined to enjoy a good cigar and pleasant conversation with his companions.

"It was last week that I ran across him. I do not know where he saw or heard of me, but he knew my position all right. He suggested that I go in with him to blackmail a pair of swindlers, using my marshal's badge to assist in the work, and his scheme would do credit to a novel writer.

"Your name's Brown, and you are a deputy United States marshal, ain't you?" he cautiously suggested as he approached me. I admitted it and he took me aside to hold a whispered conversation. "It's this way; I have got a scheme that we can pull down $500 or may be more with, if you will go in. I will do the biggest part of the work and you can take half we make. All I want is for you to flash your badge and I will pull off the spell."

"I did not understand and asked for enlightenment, which was forthcoming."

"I have been plugging with two swindlers for several weeks," he continued, "and they are beating people out of feathers. They have a small bottle filled with fine string rubber cut short. They go to an unsuspecting woman and ask to clean her feather bed. They cut a slit in the pillow, extract a few feathers and drop into them a few pieces of the rubber strings, which resemble worms and which they had previously secreted between their fingers. The women when shown them are convinced that they are worms. The swindlers finally secure the bed, weigh it on incorrect scales, take it home, dump the feathers out and if they are fine ones substitute an inferior grade and fewer in number. When returned the feathers weigh the same, of course on different scales."

"Well, the point is this; wait until they get out of town and we will go to them tell them they are under arrest, make them put up a bond for appearance and if they appear when the court convenes we will not be there and they will leave glad to get out. I will act as prosecuting witness. We can tackle them again and by constant pursuit can get a good living out of them."

"When I told him I could not think of such a thing, he excused himself and disappeared. I have not laid eyes on him since."

PREPARATION FOR HEAD CAMP, W. O. W.

Jersey Camp Appoints Committee to Work

Souvenir Program, Containing Views and Photographs Will Be Published Soon.

WILL ENTERTAIN ROYALLY.

Last night following the installation of officers by the Jersey camp, Woodmen of the World, at the hall, Third and Elizabeth streets, representatives to "Head Camp H," the state camp of Kentucky, were appointed, and a committee was named to prepare a souvenir book and program to advertise the city.

The installation came first and was quickly completed. The election of representatives followed and resulted in the election of D. A. Cross, A. W. Barkley, G. W. Parker and N. J. Yopp.

A committee was appointed to prepare a souvenir program. It will contain photographs of the principal public buildings and streets of the city, with a brief history and the program for the four days' meeting of the camp.

"The Woodmen of the World membership in Tennessee and Kentucky grew to such a size that the consolidated camp had to be divided, and 'Head Camp H' is the name of the Kentucky state camp. This will meet here the second Tuesday in March," said Police Judge D. A. Cross. "It will last four days and I judge there will be between 400 and 500 representatives here. Every camp in the state will be represented."

"As to the entertainment funds, we found that entertainments proposed and tried during the past several months to raise money failed, and each member of the camp was asked to make a contribution to the entertainment fund. Jersey camp contributed $600. We believe we will have sufficient money to give representatives a royal entertainment. The state camp will meet probably at the Red Men's hall."

CAN'T EARN WAGES.

Manager of Traction Company Asks for Less.

Columbus, Jan. 4.—F. P. Smith, of this place, president of the Columbus and Seymour Traction company, and general manager for the Southern Construction company, building an interurban line from this city to Seymour for the traction company, to connect with a traction line building from Louisville, surprised the construction company today by announcing that he would not remain in the employ of the company another year for the salary he had received, as he felt he had not earned the money, and that he would remain with the company only on a reduced salary. The company, it is thought, will respect the general manager's wishes in the matter.

VANDERBILT LEADS.

Horses in France Took Down $225,000 During 1906.

New York, Jan. 4.—W. K. Vanderbilt eclipsed all owners of race horses in the matter of money won during the season of 1906. His horses in France won $225,000, which was $39,000 in excess of his nearest competitor, Herr Weinberg, whose horses in Germany won $186,975. Lord Derby was third with $164,720, and James R. Keene fourth with $154,913.

OLD OFFICERS

RE-ELECTED BY SMITH & SCOTT TOBACCO COMPANY.

Twenty-Third Year of Concern Is Successful—Declares 3 1/2 Per Cent Dividend.

At the meeting of the stockholders of the Smith & Scott Tobacco company this afternoon, the old directors of the company declare a semi-annual dividend of 3 1/2 per cent. The election of the new directors of the company then took place, the following gentlemen being elected: B. H. Scott, J. C. Porter, G. A. Flournoy, W. F. Paxton, J. L. Friedman, J. A. Bauer, S. B. Hughes, of Paducah; J. L. Sherrill, of Mayfield, and T. J. Flournoy, of Rockmont, Ga. After the election of directors, the new board immediately met and re-elected the old officers for the ensuing year. They are, B. H. Scott, president; J. C. Porter, vice president and manager; E. G. Scott, secretary.

The year just past has been successful with the company. It marks the twenty-third year since the organization of the business in Dyersburg, Tenn., the old firm of Smith & Scott having moved to Paducah 15 years ago. The company employs 175 people.

STRENUOUS TIME FOR THE MARSHAL

Hand-cuffed to Prisoner on Train to Owensboro

Purdy Tried to Escape But Stumbled and Fell and Was Captured Again.

FIREMAN FEELS WITH STICK

After tramping through miles of mud, sleeping with a prisoner hand-cuffed to him, and traveling on a train which literally "felt" its way for miles through several inches of water, Wade Brown, deputy United States marshal, delivered a prisoner at Owensboro and returned home last night pretty well worn out. It was probably the most strenuous trip he had ever made, but it never discouraged the popular marshal and he is ready to go it again when the opportunity presents itself.

Monday night Marshal Brown left Paducah with a warrant to arrest A. N. Purdy, 25 years old, a farm hand, charged with sending obscene literature through the United States mail. The boy worked near Dawson Springs on a farm and Marshal Brown went after him Tuesday.

He tramped several miles, finally reaching the farm. Purdy was placed under arrest and the weary tramp over the hills was made and Dawson reached late that night. Marshal Brown intended to leave the next day for Owensboro and placing his prisoner in charge of Deputy John Odum he went in to appease his hunger.

Purdy got thirsty and asked if he might take a lantern and go down to the springs after a drink. Odum stood on the platform, pistol in hand and awaited Purdy's return.

Suddenly the lantern was dropped and Purdy struck out on a run, Odum pursuing. Just as the latter raised his pistol to fire Purdy slipped into a hole and fell. Odum was on him in a minute and gave him no other opportunity to escape. The fall probably saved Purdy's life.

Fearing that the prisoner might take chances again, Marshal Brown handcuffed himself with one bracelet and Purdy with the other, placing the key in the hotel safe, and the two laid down on the bed and slept soundly until morning when the clerk called them presented Marshal Brown with the handcuff key and invited him to breakfast.

When Horse Branch was reached the rain had caused several inches of water to stand on the track, and the train had to necessarily proceed with caution.

"I never saw so much backwater in my life. Marshal Brown who is an old time river engineer, declared, 'It looked like a lake with forest trees sprouting out of it. The train got down off his seat and with a stick felt along the track for miles and miles to find a possible break or washout. We were delayed hours, and when Owensboro was reached you do not know how glad I felt. It required little time to deliver my prisoner to the jailer.'"

Purdy was indicted at the last term of the federal court at Owensboro. He is charged with sending a letter containing obscene literature to a young woman in Indiana. At the time Purdy was in Charleston, Mo. The girl exposed him to the federal authorities.

DOES NOT AGREE WITH PROPHECY

Gould Thinks Country is Safe
If Conservative

Replies to Stuyvesant Fish's Pessimistic Statement in a Personal Interview.

WHAT HIS VIEWS ARE LIKE

Paducah, Jan. 4.—George J. Gould, head of the Gould system of railroads, which includes the Wabash and the Missouri Pacific, arrived in this city this morning. He will leave here later today on a trip of inspection over the Wabash and later will make a similar trip over the other roads of the system. Mr. Gould had read the statement of Stuyvesant Fish, formerly president of the Illinois Central railroad that an industrial crisis is at hand, and smiles as he said:

"The business conditions of the country look very encouraging and the immense volume of business done by the railroads during 1906 will not only be equalled in my judgment, but surpassed during the present year."

The fact that the statement is made by Mr. Fish that the New York Stock Exchange is no longer a free market but the playing of cliques and pools and that Europe distrusts our financial methods was given very little concern or thought by the railroad magnate. He refused to discuss the story at length, but said that the financial institutions and industrial conditions are in better shape at the present time than at any period in American history.

The steamer Scotia moored near the foot of Jefferson street came near swamping in the wind about 10 o'clock last night, and blew her distress signal incessantly until help arrived. Many thought a steamboat was afloat, and rushed to the river.

Two hundred deckhands, watchmen and mates of the Pittsburg pool towboats went out on strike yesterday for higher pay. The deckhands have been receiving $55 a month, watchmen $40 and mates $70. A raise of $10 a month is asked by the deckhands and mates, and the watchmen ask for a raise of $5 a month. The firms affected are the Monongahela River Consolidated Coal and Coke company, Jones & Laughlin, People's Coal company, Clyde Coal company, Diamond Coal company and Dilworth Coal company. The owners of the towboats are able to keep the boats in operation by hiring green hands and lake sailors.

Wind blew at a high velocity last night endangering river craft and in one case sinking one barge. A fuel flat partially loaded with ties in a tow brought in by the Scotia was swamped by a dead swell last night at 10 o'clock at the Illinois Central trestle at the foot of Madison street. The Scotia whistled vigorously for aid for a while as it was not apparent how much damage might be done. The barge was pumped out this morning with only a small loss of ties. There were five barges in the tow. The Scotia is a small towboat and the high wind made the tow unsteady.

The river is at a higher stage today than it has been at any time in a year except April 8, when the stage was 40.5. The stage this morning was 34.3, with a rise of 3.8 since yesterday morning. At no time throughout 1906 was the river as high as it is now. Two inches of rain fell since yesterday morning. In the first four days of this month 7.10 inches of rain have fallen, nearly as much as fell in December and two inches more than fell last January. The highest stage attained in the December rise was 30.3 and the highest stage in the November rise was 32.8.

It is a fact peculiar to open barges, that they will not sink clear under, no matter how much water you let into them. They will sink to the top of the barge but no farther. The barge sank in the Scotia's tow last night is visible and the fact that open barges won't sink entirely has saved many thousands of ties, as mishaps to them are constantly happening.

The Georgia Lee did not arrive from Memphis until today.

The Kentucky came in at 5:30 o'clock this morning with a good trip of hogs and peanuts, and will leave Saturday evening for the Tennessee river.

The Joe Fowler arrived late from Evansville today as Friday is the Joe's big day.

The cylinder timbers for the John S. Hopkins were brought down to that steamer this morning to be carried to Mound City, where they will be built. The wheel on the Hopkins has been dismantled and that boat will have to be towed down.

The high wind rocked the John S. Hopkins so much last night that the crew aboard got off and stood on the wharftop until the wind had passed.

The Buttort will be due Saturday night from Nashville, but river men doubt whether the Buttort ever got to Nashville. The high water probably is above the locks between Clarksville and Nashville, but not enough to allow the Buttort to ride over. The locks to the dam can't be opened when the river is over them. Eternal vigilance was necessary last night at the Ayer-Lord fleet while the wind was up, to prevent barges being broken loose; but no trouble occurred.

Official Forecasts.

The Ohio at Evansville and Mt. Vernon will continue rising during the next several days. Flood stage will be exceeded at Evansville. At Paducah and Cairo will continue rising for at least five days. 38 feet is now in sight for Cairo, however with the rain in prospect it is very probable that the maximum stage at Cairo will exceed 38 feet.

The Tennessee at Florence, not much change during the next 24 hours. At Riverton and Johnsonville will continue rising during the next 36 hours, 23 feet or more will be reached at Johnsonville.

The Mississippi from Chester to Cairo will continue rising during the next 24 to 36 hours.

The Wabash at Mt. Carmel will reach a stage of 17 feet or more on the present rise.

Gruesome Discovery at Morgue.

Washington, Jan. 4.—In an endeavor to identify the mangled bodies of victims of the Terra Cotta wreck of last Sunday night, a gruesome discovery was made at the morgue yesterday. What was supposed to be the mangled body of a man attired in a suit of "pepper and salt," proved to be the composite remains of several of the unfortunates who died in the Sunday evening horror. The morgue master had all the pile of human flesh and parts which had been gathered at the wreck removed to the "dead room" yesterday in an effort to establish identity. When he delved into it he found a piece of a baby's skull, a man's foot badly crushed, and encased in a shoe; the hand of a woman and a portion of a human face; also fingers, toes and other parts of women and children's bodies, and those of men all ground into the black coal dust and with pieces of garments mixed in the mass.

A Memorable Day.

One of the days we remember with pleasure, as well as with profit to our health, is the one on which we became acquainted with Dr. King's New Life Pills, and painless purifiers that cure headache and biliousness, and keep the bowels right. 25c. at all drug stores.

Daily Thought.

"There are a hundred successful

QUESTION OF LEADERSHIP.

Taft's lack of availability is to be found in the attitude of the party organization in his own state. He has never been a political politician. He has shown nothing like the capacity
for manipulating the machine exhibited in Mr. Roosevelt's career in New York state affairs.
He is antagonized by the recognized leaders of the party organization in Ohio and no Republican has ever been nominated for the presidency over the protest of his own state. But what now appears to be Taft's chief weakness may ultimately become a source of great strength.
—Lexington Herald.

It is even so, as the astute editor of the Herald has said, and backed by the force of the administration,
which has ever moved in a course
contrary to the prescribed directions
in political guide books, we may consider the closing suggestion a proph-
cy. Always bearing in mind the possibility of unforeseen exigencies in politics, we may expect the administration's first move in the campaign,
provided Taft is the real candidate,
to be a test to ascertain whether the persons opposing Taft in Ohio are real leaders. A leader, we assume, is one who leads, and Congressman Burton, of Cleveland; Secretary Taft,
of Cincinnati; Mayor Brand Whitlock, of Toledo, and the press of the state are disposed to question the right of anyone to the title of leader.

Some newspapers, anxious to bolster up an apparent difference between the president and Senator Foraker, give ear to a story that the president, as Foraker approached him down the receiving line New Year's day, remarked, "Here comes the black battalion," and give their approval to the alleged ill-mannered expression. Such a remark would have been extremely far fetched and inappropriate, considering that a battalion consists of some four hundred men; but at this time Senator Foraker was in a sense the guest of the president. The latter is not given to "walk aside." If he had wished to call Senator Foraker a "black battalion," he would have done it to the senator's face. But as a matter of fact, we think the senator from Ohio does not look so dark to the president nor so numerous as the alleged remark would indicate. Another peculiar feature of the incident is the fact that the correspondent of a Nashville paper seems to have been the only one fortunate enough to overhear the presidential witticism.
President Roosevelt should not show
such partiality as keeping a Democratic newspaper correspondent by his side in the receiving line at white house receptions. We thought his personal staff and the cabinet officers stood up to him. At least, all the other Washington correspondents so had it in their dispatches.

We are much exercised over the menace to State Rights since the warning of Secretary of State Root, but how about State Duties? Have we been duly considerate of the fact that a right implies a duty, the performance of which is necessary to the perpetuation of that right? Secretary Root merely pointed out the duty. We talk of federal interference as if this wasn't our country. The non-enforcement of laws by the state, and the lax protection afforded the people have given rise to a resentment against state institutions, and the congressman who offers his good offices to remedy conditions, receives popular approbation. The national administration has not been slow to heed this public sentiment.
Between sundry constitutional joints sustained to federal statutes and the warning of Secretary Root, the laxity of state administrations promises shortly to be sufficiently impressed on the people to force the states into doing their duty.

The Southern Cotton association has petitioned for a fraud order
against the New York Cotton Exchange, on the ground that it deals in futures without the ability or intention to make deliveries, and that it uses the mails to convey false information designed to injure the genuine spot cotton trade and further the ends of its own gamblers. The charges are serious and if the association can substantiate them, the postoffice department should deprive the exchange of the privilege of the mails. Gamblers whether with stocks, cards, or dice are entitled to no consideration;
but when the former actually dare to interfere with the welfare of legiti-mate trade, it is time for drastic measures. Of course, the association is inclined to favor New Orleans to New York for natural reasons and is liable to prejudice in the case, but the postoffice department is not, and may be relied on to act justly in the matter.

In justice to the states in which the seventy-three lynchings of 1906
occurred, the record should include the number of lynchings which were averted by the prompt action of the executive. Regardless of all the other acts of Governor Beckham's administration to his credit it always may be said, he prevented mobs
from wreaking vengeance twice during his incumbency, and in both instances the law was promptly executed. More than this, his conduct merited the approval of the whole state, press
and public indicating a strong sentiment against such brutalizing practices, when complete enforcement of the law is assured. It is probable that lynching will generally be attempted by hot heads for some crimes, but the popular support accorded Governor Beckham and other state executives in their efforts to stay the hand of the mob, should encourage their successors to emulate
their examples.

There is a class of boys too small for the juvenile court with whom the civil officers do not care to interfere,
but who are being trained to a reckless disregard of the property rights of others and the public through immunity from punishment for vandalism. For the sake of the boys and the public peace a truant officer should be appointed to look after them and their parents.

The fact that President Corey, of the steel trust was dropped from his $100,000 position because of his infatuation for pretty Mabel Gilman, shows what a nice appreciation Pittsburg financial circles entertain of the appetite and desires of dimpled chorus girls with Irish names triumphed
in French.

Hicks, the miner, who was entombled 15 days, seized with stage fright, threw up his $500-a-week vaudeville contract. Hicks thought they would put him in a dark hole and let people talk to him down a long pipe.

The Democratic press of the country is attempting to foster sentiment against the appointment of Cortelyou to the treasury portfolio. Opposition to him in the senate is led by the Standard Oil influences. Odd coincidence.

files of the newspapers, containing an accurate list of "Christmas casualties," will search the histories to learn what war was in progress in 1906.

NO GREAT STORES
IN LONDON TOWNDifference Between British
And American Merchants

Old Customs Observed For No Reason
Other Than Precedent—Effect
of Traffic Lines.

EMPLOYER AND EMPLOYEES

Business methods of the business man, translated from New York and Chicago to the metropolis of London, would need to be shaded sharply in order to avoid failure as an exotic, says Henry G. Selfridge.

"At once the American business man is struck by the London merchant's diverging point of view in reference to business. 'For generations the British merchant has regarded his business as a means of an end. In contradistinction, the American merchant has found his ends in the means itself. In his business the British merchant finds the means by which he may live his home life, his social life and perhaps political life,
according to his tastes. The American merchant finds his life in the game of business itself. For myself
I may say that I am one who enjoys the game.

"Again looking for the material reasons for the fixed magnitude of the British business house one finds
there a board of directors administering the affairs of a large concern.
This board of directors, too, fills its implied office. It goes into a comparatively minute detail in everyday affairs of a company until in the executive heads of such a house, a quick, decisive line of action becomes almost impossible. The board must be consulted. The result is cumbersome in innumerable ways.

Shutters on the Windows.

"Tradition in all directions exerts
an influence, too that is hardly understood in America. For example, in closing a London store one finds house employees pulling down the iron shutters of the show windows.
Ask a London merchant why he does it and he is likely to say, 'Why, that always has been done in London, you know.'

"The shop walker in London is not the directing guide to a store as is the floor walker in Chicago. He is an important agent of the sales department. The average person entering a London store is approached by this shop walker with the request that he buy something. If he doesn't buy he gets a suggestion of the fact that his entrance was of the nature of an intrusion. The idea of a man or woman be made welcome as a mere looker on at counter displays is not considered. A waiting and rest room in a London department store would be a radical innovation.

Advertising Almost Unknown.

"It is within two years only that advertising methods in London have been resorted to in any measure approaching that of the Chicago and New York merchants. At this time, too, advertising of the kind is questioned in that city.

"In this attitude he is backed by conditions. With its enormous population widely distributed, it is only an incidental necessity which calls for a customer's coming to the city's center for a purchase. He may buy the same article just as cheaply ten miles from London's heart. It is within a short time, only, that influences have come to bear centering transportation in a downtown London.

These agencies are the 'tubes,'
through which a fare of 4 to 8 cents lands the purchaser in this new center. Concentration of business is to be the result of the 'tube' system,
and, as in Chicago, this concentration is to make for competition. Today in the London center with its radius of a quarter of a mile, 4,000-000 people will be in easy reach of trade.

Employer and Employee.
"One of the marked characteristics of the British house is the sharp line of distinction drawn between the employer and the employee. There is a great gulf fixed between the two.
In America the merchant feels that the closer he is to his employees, and to the department heads which superintend their work, the more valuable may be the employee's services. In this manner the business becomes a school for the production of business heads in a great house. In London the possibility of such a condition is least considered. The employee is an employee; the heads of a house are the employers of persons hired to do a fixed duty. Suggestions born of an employee's experience are not welcomed.—Chicago Tribune.

Advertising.

Advertising is not an exact science and probably never will become such. In this field is the empiricist in his glory, and interesting beyond expression are his efforts at times. The whole problem is one of psychology:
To attract attention, to arouse curiosity, to begot a need, and, finally,
to make a sale. It bears the same relation to business as coal to an engine;
it is the fuel of commerce and gives it both steam and driving power. Returns from its employment are not easily ascertainable. But it is generally conceded that economy in advertising is poor economy, and large stores, in the recession of their business, realize this when they decrease their advertising appropriations. Those who live by means of advertising will live as long as they advertise; those who cease will die.
Nothing illustrates this like patent medicine advertising. Sales are numerous while printers' ink is resorted to,
but signally fall off when it is not invoked.—Wall Street Summary.

He Wins the Palm.

Many stories have been told of men
such as he who used a wart for a collar button and he whose birthday gift to his son consisted in washing the windows so that the lad might watch
the cars go by. This man, however,
seems to have won the palm:

There was an extremely mean man
in New Hampshire, who was the proprietor of a hotel. By his direction rules were posted in the hostelry forbidding almost every conceivable privilege to those not guests of the place. There was absolutely no chance for the casual loafer to get newspapers, pens, ink, stationery, etc.
There were not even free seats in the office.

One day he chanced to observe a chronic loafer gazing at the old clock that hung on the wall. The next day
a sign was placed over the clock. It read: "This clock is for the use of the guests of the hotel only."—Success.

A Discouraged Trust.

Public opinion in England has killed the soap combination. Notwithstanding the workings of the "inresistible economic law of combination," the protests of the trade and of the public have been so positive and so emphatic that the power of $60,000,000 capital was impotent to stand up against them. The refusal of the retailers to sell and of the public to buy a product, however, meritorious, which bore the "trust taint" was too much for the promoters, and they have announced that they have found their plan of economic combination "unworkable" and that it has been terminated.—Philadelphia Ledger, Ind.

REFORMS

URGED BY GOVERNOR FOLK IN HIS ANNUAL MESSAGE.

Insurance Legislation, Anti-Lobby
Bill and Other Measures Are Suggested.

Jefferson City, Mo., Jan. 4.—Gov.
Folk, in his message to the legislature today, recommended a number of acts relating to life insurance companies, among others a standard policy of all life companies, prohibiting discrimination and rebating, regulating the election of directors and requiring non-resident companies to keep at least 70 per cent of the premiums received from Missouri policyholders invested within the state.

He also recommended the enactment of a law making it a crime for anyone for compensation to lobby
with the members of the legislature.

The railroads, he said, should be required to carry passengers within the state for 2 cents a mile.

There should be a state primary law.

"Not a truth to art or science has been given,
But brows have ached for it, and
souls toiled and striven.
And many have striven, and many
have failed,
And many died, slain by the truth
they assailed."

The Osteopathic science has been assailed as vigorously as ever any new truth that has been offered the world, but today it is rapidly coming into its own, as the people become better acquainted with it—know it.

Osteopathy is an evolution of the science of treating disease. It went back to the first principles in nature
for its foundation, and by taking a step backward it has made a great stride forward.
It is merely a common sense
treatment; a method of manipulation to restore the normal conditions of nerve control and blood supply to every organ of the body by removing the physical obstruction, or stimulating, or preventing functional activities, as the condition may require.
The success I have had in Paducah in treating rheumatism, neuralgia, nervousness, malaria conditions, such as the tired-out, run-down feeling, sick, heavy headaches, and stomach disorders are but a repetition of the successes of the science everywhere.
Come to see me at any time, and let me tell you of Paducah people you know well who will vouch for benefits received from the treatment.
That's the best recommendation I can give you.

IN THE COURTS

Oscar Perkins, colored, has filed suit in the circuit court against L. A. Lagomarsino, formerly proprietor of Hotel Lagomarsino, now The Belvedere, for $5,150, for a broken leg. The boy while working on the elevator several months ago caught his leg and broke it. He attributes the accident to carelessness of the hotel proprietor in failing to keep the elevator in good condition. Lagomarsino now resides in Sheffield, Ala.

In Police Court.

Mary Averit, charged with conducting a disorderly house, near Eighth and Harris street, was presented in police court. Yesterday a stranger appeared at the police station. He claimed he was at the Averit woman's house drinking beer and that a woman took a large sum of money from his vest pocket telling him she wanted to "keep it" for him a while. The woman left the city, and the stranger did not care to prosecute, but only secure the return of the money.

The police refused to take such a case but recommended that a warrant be sworn out. The matter came to the ears of City Jailor Tom Everts, a member of the "Frontier Committee," who swore out the warrant against the woman. Members of the committee were on hand this morning to prosecute, but the prosecuting witness was absent.

People and Pleasant Events

Miss Elizabeth Dallam and Dr. Harvey Owsley Married.

Friends in the city have received announcement of the marriage of Miss Elizabeth Dallam, of St. Louis, and Dr. Harvey Owsley, also of that city, at Belleville, Ill., on Wednesday at 5 p. m. No details have been heard, but the marriage had been contemplated for some time and was not an elopement, as there was no objection from the parents.

The couple is well known and popular in Paducah where the groom formerly lived. He was with the R. W. Walker Drug company at one time and later was at the Illinois Central hospital. He is now a practicing dentist in St. Louis and stands well in his profession. He was popular socially in Paducah.

Mrs. Owsley is an attractive girl who has visited in Paducah on various occasions. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles R. Dallam, who lived in Mayfield until the last few years, but now resides at 4164 Morgan street, St. Louis. She is a niece of Mrs. Jacob Weil, of Paducah, and has visited her and, also, Miss Mae Davis of North Fifth street, frequently. She was the guest of Miss Davis last winter and was the recipient of much social attention while here.

The St. Louis Globe-Democrat of Thursday gives the only details received: Dr. Harvey B. Owsley, a dentist of the western part of the city, and Miss Elizabeth W. Dallam were married yesterday afternoon at Belleville, Ill., the Rev. Gardner of the Presbyterian church of that city officiating. The bride is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles R. Dallam, of 4164 Morgan street. She formerly lived in Paducah, Ky. Dr. Owsley said last night that they went to Belleville to have a quiet wedding, in consequence of the recent death of a particular friend of the bride. The young couple will be at home to their friends at the Hamilton hotel, after January 4.

The Woman's Club.

The Woman's club met in business session yesterday afternoon at 2 o'clock at the parish house of Grace Episcopal church. The attendance was especially large for the very inclement afternoon. Routine business was mainly transacted. A few changes were made in the executive body of the club. Mrs. John G. Miller, who has been recording secretary, was made chairman of the department of civics. Mrs. Miller's admirable executive ability and talents can be used to fine advantage in this most important of the department's. Mrs. A. R. Meyers was changed from corresponding secretary to recording secretary, and Mrs. Eli Boone was elected corresponding secretary. This makes the official personnel especially strong. Several new members were added.

At 3 o'clock the literary department, Mrs. Frank Parham, chairman, held an open meeting. Miss Anna Bird Stewart, of Cincinnati, gave a charming lecture on Bernard Shaw and read very delightfully selections from some of his most notable plays. Miss Stewart has studied in New York since she was here, and has greatly improved her already splendid talent. An attractive violin solo was rendered by Mrs. Will Clark and Mrs. David Flournoy and Mr. Richard Scott sang delightful solos.

The next meeting of the club will be on the third Thursday of January. The department of music, Mrs. James Weille, chairman, will have charge.

Surprise Party.

Mr. and Mrs. W. L. Wilkerson, of 326 North Fourth street, gave a pleasant surprise party last night in honor of the 18th birthday of their son, Mr. J. J. Wilkerson. He is employed by the Palmer Transfer company, of which his father is a member, and was summoned home last night to find about 50 of his friends present. Elaborate refreshments were served and the affair was a most enjoyable one.

PACKERS CLEVER; MUST BE WATCHED

Try To Get Barred Animals Past Inspectors

Trick Played to Work Through Board and Dead Hog Swung Up in Hurry.

GOVERNMENT MEN TALKING

That the recent rigid law providing for government inspection of meat packing plants engaging in interstate commerce is one of the best ever enacted by congress for the public health goes without saying, in view of the many things coming to light with regard to the business.

A couple of government meat inspectors stationed in meat-packing plants were discussing matters in connection with their work, and the stories they relate are highly instructive and give an index of what deplorable conditions must have existed before the federal government stepped in to protect the public. Both declared that they were compelled to keep their eyes open and maintain the strictest vigilance to prevent something from being "put over" on them. Government men are located in every department, veterinarians being present at the slaughter of the animals and other inspectors to watch every movement of the carcasses from the butcher to the finished product.

Boars Are Forbidden.

"To give an idea," said one of the inspectors, "of how 'wise' the packing house employees are in their efforts to 'put over' a forbidden carcass, it is only necessary to mention one of numerous recent occurrences of the same kind." "For instance," continued the inspector, "the government positively forbids the sale of the meat of a boar for human consumption, yet we frequently consign them to the grease tank, the product of which is branded 'inedible,' and used only as fertilizer and for soap making. While most of these condemned hogs are detected in the killing pens, some get to the cutting room before we catch them, and it is possible that the wives of the packers are sometimes rewarded by getting one through."

"For smoothness in his knee, the average packing house employee is in a class all by himself," remarked the inspector and he continued, "several days ago while two of us were together we were approached by one of the men employed in the plant, and on some pretext summoned to other parts of the building. My partner, who 'smelt a mouse,' suggested that I remain at my post and he would make a hurried investigation. He found that there was no occasion for calling us to other departments, and remarked when he got back, 'keep a close watch for something big is coming off soon.' Sure enough in a very few minutes the carcass of a 500-pound boar came saffling alone the chute having been smuggled through in the killing room. I will always believe they got another one through, but a careful search failed to disclose its whereabouts."

Jerked Up "Dead" Hog.

One of the government men related an amusing story of how at a packing plant they attempted to work through a dead hog. He said he was standing at the pen inclosing the swine which were to be slaughtered and noticed that one animal did not emit a squeal as its body was jerked to the ceiling. "They were coming pretty fast, over a hundred a minute," said he, "but I had a curiosity to know what they would try to do with this hog, which I knew was dead before it was shackled and therefore condemned for meat purposes. I followed the carcass and when I next saw it it had been scalded and scraped. It was a livid red in color which the glib-tongued workman said was caused by the water being too hot.—Exchange.

A Wonderful Happening.

Port Byron, N. Y., has witnessed one of the most remarkable cases of healing ever recorded. Amos F. King, of that place says: "Bucklen's Arnica Salve cured a sore on my leg with which I had suffered over 80 years. I am now eighty-five." Guaranteed to cure all sores, by all druggists, 25c.

IN THE GALLERY.

Boys Are Orderly, Enthusiastic and Persistent.

"Gallery Gods" in Paducah are quiet and appreciative, in fact as much so as those down below, and while it is in a measure due to the strict rules enforced by Detective T. J. Moore and Doorkeeper Cecil Trotter, the boys are plainly appreciative, and last night at the performance of "The Umpire," a pin could have been heard to drop in the gallery at times.

"This is the first time I have ever been in the gallery," a railroad man declared as he climbed into a seat on the top row and glanced down at the rows of heads below.

"Hais off!" Doorkeeper Trotter commanded. Immediately there was a flurry, and hats were jerked off, crammed into pockets and any place where they might remain in safety.

"Say, did you hear me say hats off?" Trotter authoritatively inquired of one lad who did not seem inclined to heed the first command.

It was enough. The lad came off, and it was the last one. The gallery settled down into a murmur until the orchestra came out, and the arms were waved and shouts were deafening; lads leaned over to see each musician, some calling to them by name. When the music began quittance reigned in the "roost."

"I always thought the gallery was the worst hole a fellow could get in," the railroad man said. "I have not been bothered once by talking critics who persist in annoying you during interesting parts of the performance."

The gallery, it might be truthfully said is the "whole works" when it comes to "bringing 'em back." When the gallery cuts loose its wild applause, it keeps it up until there is "something doing" on the stage again.

It is said by theatrical managers that Paducah's gallery is one of the most orderly and appreciative.

Do You Want to Know What You Swallow?

There is a growing sentiment in this country in favor of medicines of known composition. It is but natural that one should have some interest in the composition of that which he or she is expected to swallow, whether it be food, drink or medicine.

Recognizing this growing disposition on the part of the public, and satisfied that the fullest publicity can only add to the well-earned reputation of his medicines, Dr. E. V. Pierce, of Buffalo, N. Y., has "taken time by the forelock," as it were, and is publishing broadcast a list of all the ingredients entering into his leading medicines, the "Golden Medical Discovery," the popular liver invigorator, stomach tonic, blood purifier and heart regulator; also of the "Favorite Prescription" for weak, over-worked, broken-down, nervous and invalid women.

This bold and outspoken movement on the part of Dr. Pierce, has, by showing exactly what his well-known medicines are composed of, completely disarmed all harping critics who have heretofore unjustly attacked them. A little pamphlet has been compiled, from the standard medical authorities of all the several schools of practice, showing the strongest endorsements by leading medical writers of the several ingredients which enter into Dr. Pierce's medicines. A copy of this little book is mailed free to any one desiring to learn more concerning the valuable, native, medicinal plants which enter into the composition of Dr. Pierce's medicines. Address Dr. Pierce as above.

Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets are tiny, sugar-coated anti-bilious granules. They regulate and invigorate Stomach, Liver and Bowels. Do not breed the "pill habit," but cure constipation. One or two each day for a laxative and regulator, three or four for an active cathartic. Once tried always in favor.

$50,000 GIVEN AWAY. In copies of Medical Adviser, a book that sold to the extent of 500,000 copies, Dr. Pierce has given away $50,000 worth of these invaluable books. This year we shall give away $50,000 worth of them. Will you share in this benefit? If so, send in only 21 one-cent stamps, or a check for $2.10, and we will mail you one of our books in stiff paper covers, or in stamps. Write to Dr. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y.

ACID ON BREAD.

Chicago Strikers Charged With Desperate Revenge.

Chicago, Ill., Jan. 3.—Four men said to be members of the bakers' union, have been arrested on the charge of putting acid on hundreds of loaves of bread distributed among the Jewish residents on the West Side. A strike is in progress at a local bakery, and it is claimed that strike sympathizers threw the acid, also iodoforn on wagonloads of bread and rolls after they had left the bakery.

The police have confiscated many baskets of poisoned bread and are holding them for evidence. In the pockets of the four men arrested were found bottles of carbolic acid and packages of powdered iodoforn.

THE REFUGEES

By A. CONAN DOYLE,
Author of "The Return of Sherlock Holmes"

COPYRIGHT, 1893, BY HARPER & BROTHERS

Ephraim Savage was across the room in an instant and had inclosed the old merchant's thin hand in his own great knotted fist. There was a brotherly sympathy in his strong grip and rugged, weather stained face.

"Tell this man that we shall see him through, Amos. Tell him that we've got a country where he'll just fit in like a bung in a barrel. Tell him that religion is free to all there. Tell him that if he wants to come the Golden Rod is waiting with her anchor apeak and her cargo aboard."

"Then we must come at once," said De Catinat as he listened to the cordial message which was conveyed to his uncle. "Tonight the orders will be out, and tomorrow it may be too late."

"But my business!" cried the merchant.

"Take what valuables you can and leave the rest. Better that than lose all, and liberty into the bargain."

And so at last it was arranged. That very night, within five minutes of the closing of the gates, there passed out of Paris a small party of five, three upon horseback and two in a closed carriage which bore several weighty boxes upon the top. They were the first leaves flying before the hurricane, the earliest of that great multitude who were within the next few months to stream along every road which led from France.

Thanks to the early tidings which the guardsman had brought with him, his little party were now ahead of the news. At Rouen all was quiet, and Captain Ephraim Savage before evening had brought both them and their property as they had saved aboard his brigantine, the Golden Rod. It was a little craft, some seventy tons burden, but at a time when so many were putting out to sea in open boats, preferring the wrath of nature to that of the king, it was a refuge indeed. The same night the seamen drew up his anchor and began to slowly make his way down the winding river.

With the early dawn the river broadened out and each bank trended away, leaving a long, funnel shaped estuary between. Ephraim Savage snuffed the air and paced the deck briskly, with a twinkle in his keen gray eyes. The wind had fallen away, but there was still enough to drive them slowly upon their course.

"Where's the gal?" he asked.

"She's in my cabin," said Amos Green. "I thought that maybe she could manage there until we got across."

"Where will you sleep yourself, then?"

"Tut! A litter of spruce boughs and a sheet of birch bark over me have been enough all these years. What would I ask better than this deck of soft white pine and my blanket?"

"Very good. The old man and his nephew—him with the blue coat—can have the two empty bunks. But you must speak to that man, Amos. I'll have no phillandering aboard my ship, lad; no whispering or cuddling or any such foolishness."

"It's a pity that we're left so quick, or they might have been married before we started. She's a good girl, Ephraim, and he a fine man, for all that their ways are not the same as ours."

"But what is the matter with the old man? He doesn't seem easy in his mind," said Captain Savage.

The old merchant had been leaning over the bulwarks, looking back with a drawn face and weary eyes at the red curving track behind them, which marked the path to Paris. Adele had come up now with not a thought to spare upon the dangers and troubles which lay in front of her as she clasped the old man's thin cold hands and whispered words of love and comfort into his ears.

"We are always in the hollow of God's hand," he whispered, "but, oh, Adele, it is a dreadful thing to feel his fingers moving under us!"

"Come with us, uncle," said De Catinat, passing his arm under that of the old man. "It is long since you have rested. And you, Adele, I pray that you will go and sleep, my poor darling, for it has been a weary journey. Go now to please me, and when you wake both France and your troubles will lie behind you."

When father and daughter had left the deck De Catinat made his way off again to where Amos Green and the captain were standing.

"I am glad to get them below, Amos," said he, "for I fear that we may have trouble yet."

"And now?"

"You see the white road which runs by the southern bank of the river. Twice within the last half hour I have seen horsemen spurring for dear life along it. Where the spires and smoke are yonder is Honfleur, and thither it was that these men went. I know not who would ride so madly at such an hour unless they were the messengers of the king. Ah, see, there is a third one!"

On the white band which wound among the green meadows a black dot could be seen, which moved along with great rapidity, vanished behind a clump of trees and then reappeared again, making for the distant city. Captain Savage drew out his glass and gazed at the rider.

"Aye, aye," said he as he snapped it up again. "It is a soldier, sure enough. I can see the glint of the scabbard which he carries on his iarbord side. I think that we shall have more wind soon. With a breeze we can show our heels to anything in French waters, but a galley or an armed boat would overhaul us now."

De Catinat, who, though he could speak little English, had learned in America to understand it pretty well, looked anxiously at Amos Green. "I fear that we shall bring trouble on this good captain," said he. "and that the loss of his cargo and ship may be his reward for having befriended us. Ask him whether he would not prefer to land us on the north bank. With our money we might make our way into the lowlands."

Ephraim Savage looked at his passenger with eyes which had lost something of their sternness. "Young man," said he, "I see that you can understand something of my talk."

De Catinat nodded.

"I tell you, then, that I am a bad man to beat. Any man that was ever shipwrecked with me would tell you as much. I just jam my helm and keep my course as long as God will let me. D'ye see?"

De Catinat again nodded, though, in truth, the seaman's metaphors left him with but a very general sense of his meaning.

While the Puritan seaman had been talking his eyes had kept wandering from the clouds to the flopping sails and back. Such wind as there was came in little short puffs, and the canvas either drew full or was absolutely slack.

The fleecy shreds of cloud above, however, traveled swiftly across the blue sky. It was on these that the captain fixed his gaze, and he watched them like a man who is working out a problem in his mind. They were abreast of Honfleur now and about half a mile out from it. All was quiet on the curving quay and on the half moon fort, over which floated the white flag with the golden fleur de lis. The port lay on their quarter now, and they were drawing away more quickly as the breeze freshened. De Catinat, glancing back, had almost made up his mind that their fears were quite groundless when they were brought back in an instant.

Round the corner of the mole a great dark boat dashed into view ringed round with foam from her flying prow and from the ten pairs of oars which swung from either side of her. A dainty white ensign drooped over her stern, and in her bows the sun's light was caught by a heavy brass cannonade. The captain brought his glass to bear upon them and whistled; then he glanced up at the clouds once more.

"Thirty men," said he, "and they go three paces to our two. You, sir, take your blue coat off this deck or you'll bring trouble upon us. The Lord will look after his own if they'll only keep from foolishness. Get these hatchets off, Tomlinson. So! Where's Jim Sturt and Hiram Jefferson? Let them stand by to clap them on again when I whistle. Starboard! starboard! Keep her as full as she'll draw. Now, Amos, and you, Tomlinson, come here until I have a word with you."

Perils of Cold Weather.

It would not seem natural at the Christmas season if there was no epidemic of "colds" or grip or other germ afflictions, so one has arrived all right, causing the usual discomfort for holiday makers. Beware of the man who sneezes in the street car! Look out for him when he coughs in a crowd, get as far away as circumstances permit, but at any rate, do not help to hand the microbe around by catching his particular "cold." A physician says that after a windy day, when the dirt of the streets has been on the rise, there's an instant increase of business for his profession and it must be that many germs were "picked up" during the high wind of more than a week ago, to judge by the good time the doctors are now having.—Boston Herald.

EXPERIMENT FARM IN EACH DISTRICT

Plan of The Department of Agriculture

Congressmen to Name Farmers to Whom Pamphlets and Seeds Shall Be Distributed.

BEST RESULTS HOPED FOR

Washington, Jan. 4.—Prof. Gallo-way, of the department of agriculture, has developed a new scheme of seed and plant distribution which he hopes to induce congress to adopt in place of the present method of distribution of seed. The new plan consists in the introduction of new varieties of seeds and plants, together with publication of information bearing on their cultivation, the seeds, plants and bulletins to be distributed on the order of members of congress and to farmers whom they will name.

In outlining the plan Prof. Gallo-way has submitted to members 18 subdivisions, among them being:

"Extension of alfalfa growing into states where it is not a staple crop," "extension of cold-resistant alfalfas," "extension of dry land alfalfas," "distribution of new varieties of cotton," "introduction of matting plants and their culture in the United States," "new tobacco varieties," "improvement of corn," etc.

The member of congress will select certain farmers whom he believes to be willing to undertake experiments in co-operation with the department, will furnish their names and addresses to the department, which will send out the seeds, cuttings, etc., under the frank of the member. As fast as new information is obtained it will be sent broadcast by the department. The farmers selected will be expected to furnish to the department the results of the experiments and in this way thousands of farms would be converted into miniature experiment stations, while doubtless many farmers would be put in possession of crops and information which will yield handsome profits.

Long Live the King!

is the popular cry throughout European countries; while in America, the cry of the present day is "Long live Dr. King's New Discovery, 'King of Throat and Lung Remedies!'" of which Mrs. Julia Ryder Paine, Truro, Mass., says: "It never fails to give immediate relief and to quickly cure a cough or cold." Mrs. Paine's opinion is shared by a majority of the inhabitants of this country. New Discovery cures weak lungs and sore throats after all other remedies have failed; and for coughs and colds it's the only sure cure. Guaranteed by all druggists. 50c and $1.00. Trial bottle free.

CORRESPONDENCE.

And Yesterday Physician and Paducah Girl Wed.

Culminating a correspondence courtship of several months' duration Miss Tessie Warren of 320 Clements street, and Dr. James W. Wallace of Rushing, Ark., were married in Cairo yesterday. Last winter Miss Warren—who is 26 years old and an attractive young woman, an employee of the Mergenthaler-Horton Basket company in Mechanicsburg, met Dr. Wallace here. Soon afterward he moved to Arkansas. They had been corresponding ever since and this week Dr. Wallace was called to his father's bedside in his old home in Illinois. His father died and the couple agreed to marry at once. Yesterday he came to Paducah and they went to Cairo, where they were married, leaving immediately for their new home in Arkansas. Dr. Wallace is 47 years old.

NEW YORK'S HOTEL POPULATION

It Is Six Times That of Paris and in Some Seasons 185,000 a Day.

The home spirit in New York City has already been so shattered by the grandiose hotel that 41 per cent. of the so-called "fashionables" now reside in these bewildering caravansaries in preference to dwelling beneath their own vine and fig tree. The latest addition of the "Social Register" shows that nine thousand families in New York City with wealth and aristocratic pride have given up their private homes to live in hotels. An expert who has studied the hotel business in every principal country of two hemispheres says that New York cares for three times as many persons in hotels as does London, six times as many as does Paris, and ten times as many as does any other city that can be named. There are 136 large first-class hotels in Manhattan alone, more than 300, including the smaller ones, and at the rate of construction at present, the calculation has been made that within twenty years there will be on Manhattan Island alone 386 hotels of 400 rooms each, or of greater size.

Cradled wherever it may have been, the hostelry art has, surely, found its home in the American metropolis, and one needs no further figures than those just given to furnish explanation of the amazing evolution of the hotel in New York City. With a floating population each day ranging from 75,000 to 185,000, according to the railroad passenger accounts, for the various seasons of the year, there is little wonder that New York has become the city of earth most conspicuous for its hotels.

The word "palace" has been applied to hotels since the memory of man runneth not to the contrary, and a good-natured world has always accepted it as a jestful hyperbole. But, out of the New York conception of a hostelry has come a creation, in the description of which "palace" becomes a feeble misnomer.—Success.

CITY WILL NEED ALL IT CAN GET

To Carry on Expenses of The Various Departments

Rate Probably Will Be Fixed at Limit to Meet Demands of Municipal Government.

AN APPORTIONMENT ESTIMATE

It is safe to hazard the prediction that the tax rate will be put up to $1.85 this year in order to take care of all the city departments, and that rate under the present assessment will be striven to take care of everything.

A deficit of $25,000 in round numbers exists to start with and the board of public works which had $26,000 allowance last year for streets and the lighting plant, but which created a deficit in the funds of some $6,000 in addition to using the larger portion of the emergency fund, now asks for $52,000 and can expend that sum economically. The police and fire commissioners probably will need $50,000 for salaries. The police and fire departments had $48,000 for salaries last year, and the cost of new hose created a deficit of nearly $2,000 in the fire department.

ment allowance. The new cemetery needs attention and $5,000 could be well spent improving it. Parks should be allowed $5,000 this year and the mayor probably will recommend such a sum.

There is no where that a cut may be made except in the contingent fund, and most of the funds will have to be increased slightly.

It will require something like $225,000 to cover everything. Allowing for the school's share of the income a rate of $1.85 will yield about $150,000, to which may be added conservatively $40,500 from licenses, $7,000 from police court, $9,000 from the market house, $1,100 from the wharf and $7,000 from railroad taxes, making a total of $224,600.

If the work of the board of tax book supervisors increases, the assessment $1,000,000 it will bring in $18,500 more. These figures are not based on the accurate report of the auditor but they indicate the condition confronting the general council.

Agent—"This is the automobile you want. You never have to crawl under it to fix it." Sparker—"You don't?" Agent—"No. If the slightest thing goes wrong with the mechanism, it instantly turns bottom side up."—Puck.

HOOK RIPPED HAND.

Distressing Accident at Kentucky Theater Today.

While being lowered to the floor of the theater at the Kentucky this afternoon, from the loft, Lee Hart, of 320 North Twelfth street, slipped from the rope to which he was holding, and his right hand caught on an iron hook at the end of the rope, ripping it open and mutilating one finger. The rope is used to hoist trunks to the upper dressing rooms, and Hart started down on it, swinging with his hands. His hold gave way when he was ten feet above the floor and the iron hook caught his hand. He is not a regular employee of the theater. His injury was dressed by Dr. W. J. Bass.

Sure Signs of Avarice on Men's Faces

David Grayson's serial "Adventures in Contentment," now running in The American Magazine, is full of remarkable concise expressions. Take for example, this one— from the December number:

"Ownership is an appetite like hunger or thirst, and as we may eat to gluttony and drink to drunkenness so we may possess to avarice. How many men have I seen who, though they regard themselves as models of temperance, wear the marks of unbridled indulgence of the passion of possession, and how like gluttony or drunkenness it sets its sure sign upon their faces."

Temptations yielded to are quicker known than are the ones that are resisted.

DEATHS OF A DAY

J. M. Wallace. J. M. Wallace, 63 years old, of Sharpe, Marshall county, died yesterday afternoon at 5:30 o'clock of consumption after a lingering illness. He was a prominent farmer in that section and death was not unexpected. The deceased leaves a wife, two sons, Messrs. Bibb Wallace, 1700 Harrison street, and Jefferson Wallace, of Tyler. His daughter is Miss Anna Wallace. The funeral was conducted this afternoon at 2 o'clock, the Rev. T. J. Owen officiating. The burial was in Oakland cemetery. The deceased was a member of the Methodist church.

A Close Shave.

"When McDermott, the man who beat young Wharton, of Chicago, comes to congress next December I understand the reading clerk will not call his name on rollcall." Representative Rodenberg, of Illinois, told Representative Loudenslager, of New Jersey.

"And why not?" asked Loudenslager.

"Oh, he's a barber, and the clerk will simply call out 'Next!'"

"Did he beat Wharton by many votes?"

"No, only a few hundred."

"That was a close shave," Loudenslager agreed.

Use of Dead Leaves.

Much harm is often done in gardens at this time of year simply for the sake of appearance. Leaves, nature's protection for her trees and shrubs against the winter's cold, are ruthlessly swept up, often to be thrown away, sometimes to be stored to provide a future supply of "leaf soil" for use in greenhouses. Their value as a protection to the roots of trees and shrubs, and subsequently, when decayed, as a surface dressing of rich soil, is indisputable. Country Life.
